Board eyes building for future use

Former funeral home bought by commission

By SANDY FOSSON

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners reported Tuesday it has taken final steps toward the purchase of the former Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home located at 224 N. Main St. for future county use.

The commissioners stated they had already signed a $44,000 check for the property and were just awaiting "a few minor details" to be ironed out by Fayette County prosecuting attorneys James A. Kiger and John H. Roszmann in the transaction.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT follows a similar proposal by the county commissioners less than a month ago when they disclosed their intentions of selling the former Washington C.H. Eagles lot on the southwest corner of Fayette and Market streets and announced an option to purchase a larger tract of land, situated just behind the former Gerstner-Kinzer property.

At that time, the commissioners stated neither the Fayette County Welfare Department building nor the funeral home lot was involved in the proposition. The commissioners claimed Tuesday the decision to purchase the old funeral home land was "a completely separate action."

According to the commissioners, they have no immediate plans for the land or buildings. The eleven-room home with two full baths and two half-baths and the three-car garage have been vacant since Ned Kinzer transferred his mortuary business to the old

Craig mansion on Washington Avenue last Nov. 29.

Mrs. Martha Kinzer, bookkeeper of the Funeral home, said she and her husband had leased the Main Street property from Dr. J.H. Persinger from January, 1945 until the move in November, 1974 when they operated their funeral business there.

The commissioners purchased the property from Jack Cartwright, who bought the land from Dr. Persinger shortly after the Kinzers vacated the premises.

The commissioners stated they purchased the tract for two purposes: future space for expansion and the convenience to the Fayette County Courthouse and proposed parking lot, which will be located directly to the rear of the Main Street property should the commissioners agree to act on an option.

Depending on the success of the sale of the Eagles parking lot, the commissioners said they will act on a proposal to purchase a tract of land approximately 46 by 165 feet directly across from the Washington C.H. City Office Building on Fayette Street, and to the rear of the Main Street lot which is presently being cleared and graded by the Huntington Bank of Washington C.H.

The commissioners said although the purchase was dependent on "long-range planning," they felt due to a need for additional room in the county courthouse and parking facilities, "the opportunity presented itself to accomplish both purposes by buying this land."

The commissioners also voted to extend the final hearing of the Compton Creek improvement project until March 17 at 1:30 p.m., when they plan to render a decision on the ditch petition.

HUNGRY FACES — Cambodian refugee children wait at a Catholic Relief Services soup kitchen at Wat Lai, north of Phnom Penh, for a meal. The U.S. airlift into Phnom Penh has provided food, fuel and war materials into the area held by the Lon Nol government. Insurgents have cut land and water routes into the area.

Solons move on Cambodian aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — A reluctant Congress is approaching decisions on additional military aid to Cambodia amid mounting pressure for the government of President Lon Nol to resign.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott joined other lawmakers Monday in calling for "a change in leadership" in Cambodia to facilitate negotiations for the safety of refugees in Phnom Penh, the besieged Cambodian capital.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield renewed his appeal for the return of Prince Norodom Sihanouk, exiled Cambodian chief of state and nominal leader of the Khmer Rouge insurgent forces.

The congressional debate over Cambodia aid appeared headed for a climax this week in three possible forums.

First, the Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee on foreign assistance comes to grips this afternoon with President Ford's urgent request for an additional $222 million, mostly for ammunition, to enable the Cambodian government forces to keep fighting until the rainy season begins around June 1.

Second, House Democrats have called a caucus meeting Wednesday morning to vote on a resolution opposing the Cambodian aid request. A heavy Democratic vote against the aid would end any hope of House approval.

Third, a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee is to make its recommendation on more aid Wednesday after the caucus votes.

In urging a change in the Cambodian leadership, Scott asserted that the United States "ought to exert as much pressure as is necessary" to obtain a transition government in Cambodia. While Scott did not mention Lon Nol by name, an aide said later he meant the government leadership including Lon Nol.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said later that the U.S. government believes the Cambodians must decide for themselves whether to keep Lon Nol in office.

The same theme was touched on by a State Department spokesman who referred to an earlier outline of negotiating efforts that had been rebuffed by the insurgents. The outline enunciated the principle that "personalities" would constitute no obstacle to a settlement.

President Ford repeated the same principle at his news conference last Thursday, but he said it would not be appropriate for him to ask Lon Nol to resign.

State Department officials said congressional suggestions that Lon Nol resign could not have escaped the attention of Cambodian leaders.

Meanwhile, CIA Director William E. Colby reportedly told Congress Monday that he was pessimistic about the ability of the Cambodian government to survive.

Colby's closed testimony before the House Foreign Affairs subcommittee left several congressmen doubtful about the effectiveness of further U.S. aid.

Rep. Pierre du Pont, R-Del., said later that Colby had "reinforced my view that Cambodia can't make it even with more American aid."

Showdown nearing in Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senior American officials say Communist troops are massing for a spring offensive in Vietnam, where a showdown battle could develop in the next six weeks.

Intelligence reports indicate the Communist strategy is to grab as much land as possible in South Vietnam and then ask for a cease-fire. The next step would be to return to the negotiating table, where the Communists would attempt to negotiate for what remains of South Vietnam.

One of the key targets of the expected North Vietnamese spring offensive is expected to be the bustling provincial capital of Tay Ninh, in the "Parrot's Beak" region near the Cambodian border. The city would provide a capital for the provisional revolutionary government of the Viet Cong.

While the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong may mass enough men to capture Tay Ninh, experts here do not believe the Communist forces can hold it against a determined South Vietnamese counter attack.

Other Communist objectives are in the rice-growing delta region and Kontum in the midsection, where the Communist forces have sought repeatedly to divide the south in half.

State Department spokesman Robert Funseth acknowledged Monday that there is now a heavy movement of men and supplies from North to South Vietnam. He said that close to 50,000 troops have moved south on the Ho Chi Minh Trail since the beginning of January.

Funseth said intelligence reports indicate the North Vietnamese "plan to continue heavy offensive action for the foreseeable future." He said the action again demonstrates Hanoi's gross violation of the 1973 Paris Peace Agreement.

According to intelligence reports, North Vietnam has moved its 968th Division from Laos into South Vietnam. The 341st Division is on the move southward and elements of the 316th and 312th Divisions are in the south.

According to American authorities, the cuts in the Ford administration's requests for military aid and the open debate on Cambodia is believed to be encouraging North Vietnam to take risks it would not have attempted one year ago.

Hanoi depends on both the Soviet Union and China for military assistance. According to some analysts here, the Chinese are continuing their flow of supplies now but are not committed to do so indefinitely.

The Chinese are believed to be unhappy at the thought that all of Indochina would be under the hegemony of Hanoi while the Soviet Union maintains more than one million armed men on the Chinese border.

Widespread attacks sweeping Vietnam

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — North Vietnamese troops backed by tanks launched widespread attacks across South Vietnam today, toppling district capitals, bases and outposts, cutting highways and threatening to seize their second provincial capital in two months, military officials said.

Officials said the situation in the lower central highlands provincial capital of Ban Me Thuot — where nine Americans are trapped — worsened when North Vietnamese reinforcements backed by tanks renewed their assaults on the city and captured many parts of the town.

"Communist forces have launched a nationwide military campaign in South Vietnam," the Saigon command said. Heavy casualties were reported but no total count was available.

In Cambodia, heavy shelling of the Phnom Penh airport again curtailed the American airlift of rice from South Vietnam and DC8 jets bringing ammunition and other military supplies from Thailand. About 15 per cent less cargo was delivered.

South Vietnamese field reports said the reinforced 4,000-man government garrison at Ban Me Thuot had lost radio contact with the corps headquarters at Pleiku after one tank scored a direct hit on the city hall command post. But it remained in contact with observation planes acting as a relay station.

Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, chief spokesman for the Saigon command, said the command staff at Ban Me Thuot had moved outside the headquarters to operate with ranger reinforcements flown in by helicopter.

The Saigon command said the fighting — the heaviest since the fall of Phuoc Long Province north of Saigon last Jan. 7 — marks the start of a general offensive.

"Communist forces have actually begun their nationwide offensive campaign..." the command said in a communique. "North Vietnamese units, supported by tanks and artillery, launched many shelling and ground attacks against government civilian population centers and military installations across South Vietnam."

In efforts to drive back two North Vietnamese regiments and other supporting units numbering perhaps 4,000 men with between 40 and 50 tanks, South Vietnamese bombers mounted 100 missions around the city, officers said. One of the bombers immediately knocked out the tank that made the direct hit on city hall, field reports said. A second tank was destroyed behind the city treasury building, the reports said.

This raised to 14 the number of North Vietnamese tanks claimed destroyed by South Vietnamese air and ground forces in the Ban Me Thuot battle.

Building permit issued for new Murphy's store

Construction of a new G.C. Murphy Co. store on the eastern edge of Washington C. H. is expected to begin within a week to 10 days.

City inspector Glenn Tatman said a building permit has been issued to Trans-American Building Co., Columbus, for construction of the new 45,500-square foot Murphy's Mart store near the Washington Square Shopping Center on Columbus Avenue. Estimated cost of the new shopping complex is $750,000.

The store will be situated on a tract of land between the present Buckeye Mart store and the Storybrook Addition on Columbus Ave. Land for the new store was leased by the G. C. Murphy

Co., from a corporation headed by William Hadler, a Columbus real estate developer. The Murphy's Mart store project will be developed by Hadler.

J. M. Ellis Jr., G. C. Murphy Co. vice president in charge of real estate, said that, at the present time, the company has no plans to discontinue operation of its store located at 101 E. Court St. The downtown G. C. Murphy Co. store is managed by Lee S. Kraus.

The new retail facility will be a one-floor, checkout-type operation with 12 major merchandise classifications. In addition, the Washington C. H. Murphy's Mart store will feature a four-bay auto service center, an indoor-outdoor (Please turn to page 2)

First reading on income tax levy to be held at City Council meet

The first reading of an emergency ordinance enacting a one per cent city income tax will be held during the regular semi-monthly meeting of Washington C. H. City Council at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the City Office Building.

Wednesday's meeting will be City Council's first during March. The legislation requires three readings on three separate days before the measure can be imposed.

City Manager Dan Wolford said legislation for the proposed income tax will be presented in the form of an emergency ordinance. This means the city will be allowed to collect taxes from the time it will be enacted. Since the legislation is being presented as an emergency ordinance, the measure can be imposed with a two-thirds affirmative vote of City Council members.

The city plans to enact the one per cent income tax, effective April 1, to help reduce a troubled financial situation. Five of the seven City Council members have indicated the income tax is the only way the city can overcome its financial woes.

City auditor Jack Stackhouse has estimated the city will face at least a $233,000 deficit in the 1975 general fund budget without an income tax.

City legislators have pointed out that revenues generated by the one per cent levy will be used to maintain present city government operations, and not to improve services. However, Council members are hopeful that the income tax revenue will provide city employees with a cost of living increase.

Last November, voters rejected a Council offer to exchange 4.3-mills of property taxes for a 1.25 per cent income tax.

This is the city's fourth attempt to impose an income tax since the late 1960s.

In 1971, Council approved a one per cent income tax as an emergency measure and the city collected taxes from April until after the November election that year when the levy was removed after voters approved initiative petitions.

The income tax ordinance is one of two pieces of emergency legislation appearing on City Council's agenda.

Council members are expected to approve an emergency resolution honoring Clifford E. Hughes for services rendered as a member of the Fayette County Board of Health.

Three items appear on the city manager's report. Council members will hear a status report on U.S. 35 and U.S. 22 resurfacing projects, discuss plans for improvement of the county's disaster warning system and review a notice from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development authorizing the sale of flood insurance in Washington C. H. effective March 12 pursuant to the city's application.

Vocational education expanding

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Vocational education will be available to all Ohio high school student in September, 1975.

School districts not offering vocational education will be assigned to existing joint vocational schools to comply with a state law by next fall, the state Board of Education announced Monday.

John R. Meckstroth, Cincinnati board member, said if the 77 school districts not now in compliance can "come up with more suitable arrangements... the state board will be pleased to give serious consideration to alternative proposals.

Meckstroth said 93 per cent of all high school students in the state presently have access to job training.

"Most essential is that every student who desires to enter the world of work upon graduation from high school has the opportunity to prepare for satisfying and profitable employment," he said.

March board action also included the appointment of three new state Department of Education division directors.

Dr. James S. Lantz, superintendent of the Pike-Delta-York Local School District in Fulton County, was appointed director of elementary and secondary education.

Also appointed were: Raymond A. Wasil, director of the Summit County Department of Job Placement Services, to director of guidance and testing and Robert H. Koon, assistant director of the department's Division of Vocational Education, to head school food services.

WSNS NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY — The Washington Senior High School chapter of the National Honor Society inducted 20 new members Monday. The group included three seniors and 17 juniors. Pictured are the entire Honor Society class, with advisor Fred Cluff at the far right. Former members of the society are wearing their robes which had not yet been received by the new members.

Banquet honors NHS inductees

A banquet to honor the newly-inducted members of the Miami Trace and Washington C.H. chapters of the National Honor Society was held Monday night in Grace United Methodist Church. Members of both chapters and their parents were invited to attend the dinner sponsored by the Fayette Area Bankers Association.

After the invocation by Carol Rex of Miami Trace, dinner was served by the church ladies, and following dinner, the new members were introduced.

Each inductee was recognized individually as he lit a candle in the room. At the conclusion the 44 burning candles represented the collective strength of the new members. Former members of the National Honor Society, all seniors at their respective schools, were introduced.

The ceremony was conducted jointly by Jim Smith, president of the Washington Senior High School chapter, and David Louis, president of the Miami Trace chapter.

School advisors Fred Cluff of WSNS, and Fred Doyle of Miami Trace, discussed briefly the meaning of membership in the National Honor Society. They said candidates are selected on the basis of their achievement in several areas, including scholarship, service, character and leadership. Each must have at least a 3.25 accumulative point average.

They also noted that the parents of these students should consider the selection of their child as a personal recognition of themselves. Their guidance and sacrifice plays an important role in creating a positive attitude in the student.

Each school recognized outstanding members of the senior class. Doyle announced scholarship awards for two students, Mark Spears and Rhonda Hendricks. He said that although only one scholarship is normally awarded, the society members (the members themselves make the selection) had cast a tie vote for the two individuals and therefore two were awarded.

National Honor Society service awards were presented to seniors Diane Conley and Katie Frazier.

Cluff announced the Washington Senior High School recipients. The scholarship was presented to Barb Oswald while Debbie Wonderleigh was recognized for outstanding service.

They both noted that choosing only one or two students for recognition of service is difficult because all of the members of the society have been active in school service. Among the activities in which the members are involved are tutoring of students with academic difficulties, student government, fund-raising programs, and working as office or library assistants.

Almost all of the members of the Miami Trace chapter will be involved in an upcoming fund-raising activity. They will be "taking over" the operation of Frisch's restaurant for a day. Members will work in the kitchen, serving food, and handling the cash register, and the proceeds from the business that day will be added to the society's scholarship fund. Last year, Doyle said, more than $2,000 was raised by the group.

Guests at the banquet were officers of the four sponsoring banks, the Fayette County Bank, First National Bank of Washington C.H., First National Bank of New Holland, and the Huntington Bank of Washington C.H. Cliff Dixon of the Washington C.H. chapter concluded the evening with the benediction.

WSNS'S INDUCTION ceremonies had been held in the high school gymnasium earlier in the day when the new inductees were recognized before the student body.

The president of the Washington C.H. chapter of the National Honor Society Jim Smith administered the oath to new members after they had been recognized individually. The symphonic band played the processional.

Principal Fred Jones delivered the acceptance speech, and Superintendent Edwin M. Nestor welcomed the new members. Both administrators noted that these leaders of tomorrow can not afford to rest upon their laurels. They said that induction into the society recognizes past achievement, but what they do in the future is vastly more important than what they have already accomplished.

Membership in the National Honor Society is a lifetime recognition of scholastic achievement, outstanding service, high moral character and leadership. With lifetime membership comes a responsibility to nurture these qualities in all walks of life.

Stock list turns mixed

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today, meeting with some new resistance from profit taking.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 1.88 at 774.25. Advances, however, held a moderate over-all lead over declines in another active session at the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers said it was natural for the market to encounter some selling after the sharp gains of the past two weeks, which had extended the Dow's rise since early December to nearly 200 points.

Anderson, Clayton was the most active issue on the NYSE, down 3/4 at 24 1/2.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index rose .28 to 78.50.

Gold issues gained with world bullion prices rising strongly.

The Big Board's composite index of more than 1,500 common stocks was off .06 at 44.82.

Rowan Cos. was the Amex volume leader, unchanged at 21 3/4.

Rape class being held for students

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — It's the most popular girls' course at suburban St. Francis High School, but the pupils hope they never use what they learn there.

"Everybody calls it the rape class," teacher Judy Richmond said. "It's called the self defense class, but it really involves a lot more than that."

The class was started last year by Mrs. Richmond and team teacher Kay Seamonson after a number of parents and students expressed concern about a wave of rapes on Milwaukee's South Side.

"We really didn't know much about rape, but we studied up on the basics of self defense and brought in people to talk to the girls," Mrs. Richmond said. "Most of the sophomores, juniors and seniors took the course."

The class, part of St. Francis High's elective physical education program, begins with Mrs. Richmond teaching the rudiments of self defense, which she learned from a book.

"We don't get into any real judo or anything like that," said Mrs. Richmond, 27. "We just show the girls how to really hit and kick and chop, and where to do it. We also try to teach the value of the element of surprise."

However, she said the class tries to encompass other aspects of rape, including what motivates a rapist, what different emotional states a rapist may be in, how to go about prosecuting for rape and what mental and emotional pressures may come to bear on a woman who has been raped.

Postal superintendent resigns from post

FRANKLIN, Ohio (AP) — U.S. Postal Superintendent John Tewell has resigned from his post here after pleading guilty to misappropriating $70 of postal funds.

Tewell, who is also president of the Franklin School Board, appeared before a U.S. Magistrate Feb. 13.

on domestic oil and gas also might be done gradually, he said.

Rep. Jim Wright, D-Tex., head of a Democratic task force that developed a proposed party position on energy legislation, also expressed optimism that a more gradual plan might open the way to compromise.

"I just don't believe a one-million-barrels-a-day reduction by the end of this year is a realistic goal," Wright told a reporter.

There were suggestions from various Capitol Hill sources that the first $1 imported crude oil tax, which Ford ordered into effect Feb. 1 might be allowed to stand, perhaps with the understanding that gasoline would bear a substantial share of it.

Zarb told the Budget Committee the administration thinks imported crude oil should be taxed across the board, but he added, "We have got to try to see that gasoline carries its share."

Ways and Means Democrats, however, were reported not to have given up their plan for a specific gasoline tax.

Zarb also hinted that the administration might consider, on a

Food stamp dilemma

The Department of Agriculture and the Senate Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs have clashed over food stamps. The agency says that many ineligible for food stamps are receiving them. A new committee report says the stamps are being denied to more than 20 million needy people.

The committee blames agriculture's allegedly restrictive policies, which it says are currently "preventing the food stamp program from meeting the needs of the newly unemployed." To deal with this problem the committee proposes that in place of the cumbersome eligibility certification process an applicant's sworn statement of eligibility be accepted. This would speed up the government's response, but at the same time the Agriculture Department's claims of fraud must not be ignored. A course should be steered between laxity and denial of food stamps to those who urgently need them.

WASHINGTON CALLING By Marquis Childs

Weapons race goes on

WASHINGTON — The sorcerers conjuring up their witchcraft in the Middle Ages have a faint resemblance to the physicists of today who conjure up weapons so arcane as to be beyond the comprehension of most of us.

There is one great difference. The sorcerers dealt with magic that had no visible form, while out of the laboratories of the physicists came weapons of incredible destructiveness.

The latest weapon — that word is pitifully inadequate, as though it were bows and arrows — to come from the magic makers is currently the subject of a hassle with the defense chiefs.

It is known as the Terminal MaRV. When it is developed, tested and deployed, it will put a warhead on target in the range of the infield of a baseball diamond.

It is this phenomenal accuracy that is the center of a dispute with the Pentagon. With the Terminal MaRV, the United States could destroy all the Soviet Union's land-based missiles. After such a first strike, their potential for reprisal would be limited.

Merely the news that the Pentagon is going for a weapon with such phenomenal accuracy will unsettle the present balance of nuclear forces. Moscow will see this as confirmation of the intention of Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger to go for a knockout first strike. As with the Multiple Independently Targetable Reentry Vehicle MIRV, that old fashioned device, it will set the adversary off on a similar path.

Here is how the Terminal MaRV works. On the downward course of its trajectory, the targeting process begins, whether by television and-or radar, the magic-makers will determine. In those last seconds of its fall, the brain inside puts it on a hardened silo which is thereby destroyed.

A year ago Schlesinger began to project a new strategy. The theory was that the city and population-destroying targeting of the past was immoral. Instead, military targets would be hit with relatively minor loss of civilian life. In this way, so the theory went, a nuclear war could be limited and the mass destruction of much of the civilized world averted.

The fallacy in this last is that a nuclear war can be limited. Those qualified to know out of long experience with arms control and Pentagon planning are convinced that once the first nuclear weapons are discharged, an all-out exchange will follow with the catastrophic consequences so long predicted.

Rep. Robert L. Leggett, D-Calif., and other members of the House Armed Services Committee are convinced that the Terminal MaRV must be stopped before it sets off still another round of the nuclear arms race.

They point out that at one time MIRV was considered a bargain chip to be traded off in a SALT agreement. Then the Pentagon proceeded to MIRV all American missiles. Now the Russians are MIRVing like mad and the weaponeers argue that, with this device on their blockbuster SS-9s, we will have to counter with bigger missiles or greater accuracy in which the United States already leads by a wide margin.

In the new defense department budget, the allocation for the Terminal MaRV and an Evasive MaRV, the latter intended to foil Anti-Ballistic Missile defenses, is what in Pentagon terms is considered an insignificant sum — $101 million. The Terminal MaRV in development and testing is perhaps a decade away.

But with Schlesinger and Gen. George S. Brown, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, as witnesses, Leggett contended that even a decision at this stage would be the trigger for a new lap in the race that would eventually cost many billions of dollars.

Schlesinger as witness is himself a kind of Evasive MaRV. He has the facility for answering a question that seems to put him in agreement with the questioner and yet on analysis is no answer at all.

with destructiveness many times so total, why should there be this never-ending push to go on? The answer seems to be like the question about climbing Mt. Everest — because it's there.

Letter To The Editor

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD

Thank goodness, finally we read in our local paper, on information supplied by our natural gas source, and its mother company, that its gas curbs will be eased for the time being due to warmer than anticipated weather recently. The log that the writer keeps on local weather, with the exception of a cold spell in November, and a short one early in January, has been much milder than the last several winters — no zero days. What would we all do with a winter like 1950-51? It would either be go to Florida or freeze, I guess.

The writer has been informed every month this winter, as have most other commercial and industrial customers using gas, that we will have to pay an expensive penalty, and possibly have his gas shut off, unless his usage of that fuel is curtailed. This, in spite of the fact that his thermostat is shut down to its lowest point every night, or when he is absent from the office, and only set up to a maximum of 62 degrees during his daytime occupancy of the store. He must keep his latex paint from freezing or lose it all.

In spite of my watch dog eyeing of the thermostat, along with most others I have talked to, all of our heating bills are 50 to 100 per cent higher than that of a year ago — and we are momentarily awaiting another rate increase.

Before the writer went out of the coal business, the oil companies and utilities were all boasting of the economy, ease of firing, comfort, and lastly abundant supply of their respective fuels, in preference to coal. Now that most of us have converted to these luxury fuels, we suddenly find there is not enough to go around; and if it were not for this sole abundant fuel, namely coal, which is being frantically converted into oil, gas and electricity, we would all be in a helluva shape.

Also, another unanswered question — why do certain stores stay open 24 hours a day — 7 days a week, taking the fuel from schools, homes, hospitals and churches, as well as needed businesses and factories, causing unemployment???

Ohio Perspective

Prison chief keeps open mind

LUCASVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Arnold Jago, new superintendent of the Southern Ohio Correctional Facility, believes in keeping an open mind.

"I try to look at both sides of the coin before making a decision," he said in a dry, measured voice.

His colleagues in the state corrections department would agree with him.

"His reputation among corrections staff members is that of a very firm person, but also a very fair person," said George Denton, corrections department director.

Denton appointed Jago to his new post at the maximum-security prison on Feb. 16.

Jago—pronounced "Jaygo" — has built his reputation over nearly 23 years in the Ohio corrections system. He started out in 1952 as a guard at the old Ohio Penitentiary in Columbus, now the Corrections Medical Center.

"I had just got out of the Navy and was wanting a job," Jago recalled. Since then, he has pursued his career with a steady determination.

Notes Denton: "All the usual qualities apply to Jago—hardworking, dedicated, loyal."

For nine years before coming to Lucasville, Jago was associate superintendent at the Chillicothe Correctional Institute.

His boss there, Supt. Frank Gray, said he "has a way of putting a sensitive finger on the heart of an issue—he'll do a great job down there (at Lucasville)."

Jago starts with an advantage in his new post.

"I'm already well acquainted with many of the management people and corrections officers and also many of the inmates from my years at the Ohio Penitentiary and Chillicothe," he said. Jago said, he wanted to maintain "an honest rapport, a straightforward approach" with Lucasville's 1,300 inmates.

"I don't have any radical changes in mind," he said. "I just want to run a well-established, efficient correctional agency."

He admitted, however, that because of past incidents in which guards have been killed "Lucasville has a reputation that needs to be gotten rid of."

Jago thinks he can do it. "This isn't a new ball game for me," he said. "I feel I'm in a position where all my training and background can be used. And I have a very cooperative staff."

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

She's not tickled
by George's mustache

DEAR ABBY: Four months ago, when we were on vacation, my husband neglected to shave for a few days, so our daughter said: "Oh, Daddy, you'd look neat in a mustache, please grow one!"

Well, George grew a mustache. I didn't like it one bit, and I told him so, but he hasn't said anything about shaving it off. I don't hassle him about it, but he knows how I feel.

Some of our friends like George's mustache, and some don't, but George seems to hear only the compliments he gets on it.

Personally, I think he should listen to me. As his wife, I surely want what is best for him and I wouldn't steer him wrong.

Abby, why would a man insist on wearing a mustache (or a beard) when he knows his wife doesn't like it?

ONE WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Facial hair on men communicates a variety of messages. Among the most obvious are: "Like it or lump it. I'm old enough to shave and have the whiskers to prove it, and I'm doing my own thing."

It's a symbol of independence, and in some cases, it's a decoration 'one courageously confers upon himself.

DEAR ABBY: What one thing most inspires you to write?

NOSY IN N.J.

DEAR NOSY: The Bureau of Internal Revenue.

DEAR ABBY: I prepared a huge, lovely dinner party myself. When my guests departed, they all thanked me and raved about how wonderful everything was.

The next morning, each one telephoned to tell me again how much they enjoyed the dinner, repeating the compliments about the food, etc.

Abby, I had no help, and there was plenty of cleaning up to do after the party, and I was very much annoyed with those unnecessary calls. Each one talked for 15 minutes to half an hour, and when they all finished, my morning was gone.

After having already thanked me, I felt it was totally unnecessary for them to call the next morning and take my time as they did.

On top of it all, one of the guests took a tremendous amount of meat for her second helping, and then asked for a doggie bag.

What is your opinion of both cases?

DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: In addition to verbal thanks on departing, a written note to reiterate one's appreciation is far more appreciated, and less intrusive than a telephone call. And as for the doggie bag number—Wow, and bow wow! Shame on her.

DEAR ABBY: My wife recently lost her mother whom we loved dearly. My wife was an only child and "Moms" left us a substantial sum of money.

Although we are a young family with young children and have had a difficult time making end meet, we cannot bring ourselves to spend any of our inheritance.

We don't dislike money, and could have enjoyed spending some of Mom's money while she was still alive if she had just made an occasional small gift to us and said: "Here, I know you can use a few luxuries, so please take it, and spend it and enjoy it!"

Abby, what do you think of this? Are we normal to feel as we do? Sign us . . .

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: I think you're probably sufficiently "normal" to get over your present attitude, and adopt the "better late than never" philosophy. P.S. Write to me in a year from now, and if you still can't spend it, I can recommend some dandy charities.

County auditor opens third term in office

Fayette County auditor Mary Morris, Rt. 3, Washington C. H., who received more votes in the November general election than any other local candidate, began her third term in office Monday.

An employee in the office for more than 30 years, Mrs. Morris has served as Fayette County's auditor since 1967. She was first elected to the post in 1966 and was re-elected in 1970 and 1974, running unopposed each time.

The present auditor began her service under Ulric T. Acton, who held the post until his death in 1955. He was succeeded by Harry R. Allen, who then retired in 1967. Mrs. Morris was appointed deputy clerk in the early 1950s, and then succeeded Allen in the elective office.

The auditor's term is for four years, and begins the second Monday in March. Mrs. Morris explained that it is unreasonable to begin the auditor's term at the first of the year because that is the busiest part of the year for the office. Changing auditors in March allows the office to close the year's books before the change takes place, she said.

Mrs. Morris is the wife of Hugh Morris, a Jasper Township farmer.

Approve outlay of defense funds

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The State of Ohio approved on Monday the expenditure of more than one-half million dollars for legal costs in defending national guardsmen accused in the 1970 Kent State shootings.

The State Controlling Board approved release of $201,954 to the state attorney general's office from the state emergency fund for legal fees in the case. The board earlier had released $300,000 for legal expenses.

First Asst. Atty. Gen. Jim Laurenson said the money includes $75,000 to cover the costs of a civil trial beginning in May.

If the decision in that case is against the guardsmen, he said, more money will be needed to fight the case in appellate courts.

The Kent State cases, both civil and criminal, stem from the killing of four students and the wounding of nine others during an antiwar demonstration on the Kent State University campus in May, 1970.

Eight guardsmen were indicted by a federal grand jury for allegedly violating the civil rights of the students killed and wounded. A federal judge dropped charges against all eight during the trial, ruling the prosecution had not proved its case.

Still pending are civil suits for damages brought by the wounded students and by parents of the dead students.

Laurenson said trial begins May 19 on the civil suit seeking about $20 million in damages. The suit is a consolidation of about a dozen suits filed separately, he said.

He said the state has outstanding legal debts of $112,000 now, and added that "our best estimate of what these civil cases will cost" runs to $75,000. "It could indeed be that it will exceed this amount," he said.

Studded tire act pushed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohioans won't be able to use studded snow tires after next Saturday unless the legislature passes a pending emergency bill and Gov. James A. Rhodes signs it.

Rep. Arthur Bowers, D-98 Steubenville, chairman of the House Highways and Highway Safety Committee, said he will seek quick House action on the measure approved by the Senate March 3.

Bowers introduced an identical bill in the lower chamber, but deferred to the Senate measure in the interest of time. The bill extends Ohio's present Nov. 15-to-March 15 "studded tire season" to Nov. 1-to-April 15.

The measure is designed mostly for the benefit of motorists in Ohio's northeastern snow belt, but sponsors noted that this week's snowstorm suggested it has broader application.

Danish student Kiwanis speaker

A foreign exchange student who is currently attending Miami Trace High School was the guest speaker at the Washington C.H. Kiwanis Club meeting Monday night in the Lafayette Inn.

Bent Hansen, a native of Denmark, explained some of the differences between the two countries. While the United States has more than 200 million people, the entire population of Denmark is only about five million, less than the population of New York City.

Most of Denmark's population are engaged in farming, fishing, small industry or government work. The government owns and operates the railroads and the schools.

Farms are relatively small, averaging only 52 acres, and the major crops are barley, wheat, rye, sugar beets and grasses. Dairy farming is prominent and production of milk and cheese is a major industry.

School is compulsory through the ninth grade, and each high school student is paid $70 per month while attending school, Hansen said. His talk was accompanied by a slide presentation.

His year in America was arranged through the American Field Service program, and he is residing with Mr. and Mrs. Art Schaefer, Ohio 38-N. Schaefer attended the meeting and introduced his "adopted" son.

At the close of the meeting, club president Guy Foster reminded members of the upcoming inter-club trip to Windsor, Canada. The goodwill adventure is slated for April 22.

A Marysville Municipal Court judge also granted a continuance of Sims' arraignment to allow him time to find a lawyer.

Deadline for submitting manpower programs Friday

The initial steps in developing Ohio's comprehensive manpower plan for fiscal 1976 are presently nearing completion, but little interest has been expressed by local employers.

The deadline for local agencies desiring manpower programs is Friday, but in the five-county area served by the regional manpower services commission in Washington C. H., only the Fayette County Community Action Commission has requested funding.

John Borrowman, whose office is located at 110 E. Market St., is the local agent for the manpower program. He said any agency, institution, non-profit organization or governmental unit may apply for federal manpower revenue sharing funds under Title I of the Comprehensive Employment Training Act.

In order to qualify a program, the employer must show that the employment opportunity offered by the agency will cater to low income groups and will provide training in a skill which can be used by the personnel in other areas as well as to serve the current employer.

Those employers who qualify can have the employee salary subsidized by federal funds. Borrowman explained that the purpose of the program is to offer low income persons job opportunities and at the same time provide them with useful skills.

Any agency interested in submitting a proposal for manpower funding is urged to contact Borrowman at 335-7282 immediately.

WORLD WAR II REVISITED — Films of World War II combat action will highlight the meeting of the Fayette County Pilots Association Wednesday night, and the public is invited. Above, George (Bud) Naylor, who served as a radio operator-gunner aboard the light bomber, El Capitan, is pictured with his crew. Naylor, the second from the right, flew some 60 missions in the European theatre. Veterans, especially Air Force veterans, are urged to attend the meeting to view the films.

WWII films to be shown

Films of fighter and bomber action during World War II will be shown at Wednesday's meeting of the Fayette County Pilots Association. The meeting, to be held at the Fayette County Airport, will begin at 7:30 p.m., and the public is invited.

The films offer area veterans an opportunity to engage in a bit of nostalgia. They will include segments of the Eighth Bomber Command in action over German, the Twelfth Air Force over Italy and captured Japanese film showing the attack on Pearl Harbor. There will also be a film of P-51 Mustang action over Germany.

Those who did not pilot or serve in crews aboard the specific craft photographed will still find the films interesting, and all veterans are urged to attend.

A short business meeting will be conducted by Jack Sanders, pilots association president.

Hearing set for Rep. Orlett

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A preliminary hearing will be held next Monday for State Rep. Edward J. Orlett, D-34 Dayton, charged with felonious assault of a parking lot attendant.

Orlett Monday requested a full hearing when he appeared before a judge in Franklin County Municipal Court.

If probable cause is found next Monday, the judge will send the case before a grand jury.

George F. Dempster, 64, assistant manager of the Statehouse underground parking garage, accused Orlett on Thursday of attempting to run him over.

Police Homicide Detective Tom Strausbaugh said Dempster claims Orlett drove his car into him after the lawmaker was unable to produce a parking ticket and was told he would have to pay a set fee or go back into the Statehouse and get his legislator's free parking ticket stamped.

Dempster said he flung himself on the car hood to avoid being hit.

Strausbaugh said Dempster received minor bruises.

Orlett told a Dayton newspaper he offered to sign a blank receipt or pay the fee, but Dempster insisted on a stamped ticket. The legislator said Dempster spreadeagled himself on the car hood, and Orlett left the car to get a stamped ticket.

Orlett, 41, a former Trotwood city councilman, faces a possible 2-15-year sentence and a fine up to $7,500 if convicted.

Marquette defeats Tulane, 73-65

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — "I feel that Kentucky will try to speed up our game, and we must work to keep it at our own pace," said Marquette Coach Al McGuire looking to next weekend's NCAA tournament after topping Tulane 73-65 Monday night.

Fifth-ranked Marquette will meet

Kentucky, rated sixth, in Saturday's first round of the NCAA Midwest Regionals in Tuscaloosa, Ala.

McGuire said Kentucky "is a very physical team, and this could hurt us a lot as we have not proven to be very physical this year."

Kentucky assistant Coach Dick Parsons, who was at the Marquette-Tulane game, disagreed with McGuire. "We are not any more physical than Marquette is," Parsons said. "And besides, you cannot neutralize their tremendous quickness with being physical."

"Defensive play and rebounding," Parsons added, "will decide our game and both teams are very good in both categories."

McGuire said of the Green Wave: "Often Tulane was a little too physical for us."

But he also was critical of the heat. "I felt a major factor in our play during the first half was the heat and humidity in Tulane's gym," McGuire said. "I feel we got psyched out by the heat and used that as an excuse for some sloppy playing in the first half."

"This is not to take anything away from Tulane," he added. "They have an outstanding team..."

Marquette jumped to an early 12-point lead as a shaky Green Wave turned over the ball repeatedly.

Then the Wave scored 17 consecutive points over a six-minute period to take a six-point lead.

The Warriors then got moving and the score was knotted 30-30 at halftime, but Marquette blew it open early in the second half, scoring 16 points to Tulane's three in the first six minutes of the period.

Marquette was in front by 17 points with about 12 minutes left. But Tulane was aggressive, scoring 11 points to the Warriors' four late in the game. However, the Green Wave couldn't catch up.

Few surprises in tourney list

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Old Man Upset has been on a virtual holiday so far in the Ohio Class AAA high school basketball tournaments.

Seven of The Associated Press' top ten-ranked powers during the regular season have reached the final 16 in the regional tournaments this week.

And two of the three eliminated, No. 5 Dayton Roosevelt and No. 6 Alliance, fell to other members of the Top Ten. Third-ranked Kettering Alter polished off Roosevelt and Alliance fell to second-ranked Canton McKinley.

Toledo Scott, fourth-ranked, was upset by unranked Toledo Macomber in the Toledo District finals last week.

Still in the running for the state tournament title are No. 1 Middletown, No. 2 McKinley, No. 3 Alter, No. 7 Barberton, No. 8 Zanesville, No. 9 Newark and No. 10 Elyria.

All three AP poll champions are in contention, Class AAA Middletown, Class AA Circleville and Class A Mansfield St. Peter's.

Only three other Class AA ranked squads are alive, however. They are fifth-rated Rossford, No. 6 Warsaw River View and No. 7 Springfield Shawnee.

In Class A, seven of the Top Ten have fallen by the wayside. St. Peter's, fifth-ranked Pettisville and seventh-rated Windham will play in regionals this week.

Four games Wednesday night launch regional play.

In Class AAA, McKinley, in the Sweet 16 for the 24th time without a state championship, takes on Youngstown South in the Canton Auditorium. McKinley is 21-1 and South 18-4.

Also in Class AAA at the University of Dayton, Middletown (22-0) plays Trotwood-Madison (20-2) and Alter (22-0) tangles with Cincinnati Bacon (20-2). There are no Class AA regional contests and the only Class A contest Wednesday night sends Kalida (16-6) against Mount Blanchard Riverdale (17-5) at Bowling Green University.

The survivors of regional championships Saturday will form the semifinals for the Ohio high school tournament March 20-22 at Ohio State University.

Cincinnati Reds top Kansas City, 2-1

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds came up with both their runs in the eighth inning Monday and handed the Kansas City Royals their third consecutive exhibition defeat, 2-1.

With Royals' reliever Lindy McDaniel on the mound, Tom Spencer led off with a single, stole second and scored on a pinch double by Arturo DeFreites. DeFreites later scored when McDaniel dropped a throw to first base.

Old Dominion set for final tourney

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — Long-time small college basketball power Old Dominion, one of three teams considered favorites, makes its farewell appearance in the National Collegiate Athletic Association's College Division II tournament, beginning here Wednesday.

Akron and Assumption are also tabbed possible winners of the tourney.

No. 6 ranked Old Dominion (22-6), which will be moving up to the major college division next year, is led by sophomore center Wilson Washington, a 6-foot-9 transfer from Maryland.

All-Big Ten cage team picked

By The Associated Press

Top-ranked and undefeated Indiana placed three stars to dominate the 1975 All-Big Ten basketball team named today by The Associated Press.

Named to the All-Conference squad were Scott May, towering Kent Benson and play-making guard Quinn Buckner, each a key factor in the Hoosier's 18-0 record and walkaway Big Ten title.

May and Benson, along with Big Ten scoring champion Terry Furlow of Michigan State, each captured all except two first-team votes from the 10-member AP selection panel.

Also honored on the six-player first unit were Purdue's John Garrett and Michigan State's Lindsay Hairston, the only repeater from the AP's 1974 honor team. He tied with Buckner for the fifth spot.

Barely missing the first team were Ohio State's Bill Andreas and Michigan's C. J. Kupec, who led a second team that also included Indiana's Steve Green, Michigan's Joe Johnson and Minnesota freshman Mark Olberding.

The selection reflected a surge of new stars into the Conference this season. Buckner, Furlow and May, who missed the final three games because of a broken arm, are juniors, and the 6-11 Benson is a sophomore.

Only six seniors, including Hairston and Garrett on the top unit, were named on the first two teams.

Green, from Indiana's starpacked squad, slipped from first team recognition last season while Buckner and Garrett, Purdue's top scorer and rebounder, moved up from second team selection in 1974.

Furlow, a 6-foot-4 the next to smallest first team player, wound up the Big Ten scoring champion with a 21.4 average. His Spartan teammate, the 6-foot-7 Hairston, led the league in rebounding with an average of 11.3. Hairston also was the rebound champion last season.

The 6-foot-8 Kupec, Michigan's scoring and rebound leader, was a second team repeater, while Rick Schmidt of floundering Illinois slipped from second team to honorable mention.

FIRST TEAM

Terry Furlow, Michigan State, 6-4, Junior, Flint, Mich.

Indiana tops poll again

By The Associated Press

The Indiana Hoosiers completed their perfect regular season, but may possibly be looking over its shoulder at No. 2-ranked UCLA.

Named on all 37 first-place ballots by a nationwide panel of sports writers and sports broadcasters, the Hurryin' Hoosiers polled 740 points to retain their top spot in The Associated Press college basketball poll.

But UCLA, going after its 10th national championship in the past 12 years, jumped two spots to second in the weekly poll. Winning the Pacific-8 Conference with an over-all record of 23-3, the Bruins collected 603 points. Indiana finished its regular season with a perfect 29-0 record.

While Louisville, 24-2, retained third place with 575 votes, Maryland, second a week ago, dropped to fourth after losing in the Atlantic Coast Conference post-season tournament.

Fifth-ranked Marquette and sixth-ranked Kentucky held on to their spots in the Top 20, while North Carolina, ACC tournament champion, rocketed from 12th to seventh.

Rounding out the Top 10 are eighth-ranked Arizona State, ninth-ranked North Carolina State and 10th-ranked Alabama.

The second 10, in order, are Penn, Notre Dame, Southern California, Clemson, Oregon State, Rutgers, Texas-El Paso, Cincinnati, Centenary and Pan American. Texas-El Paso, Cincinnati and Centenary are in a three-way tie for 17th.

Scott May, Indiana 6-7, Junior, Sandusky, Ohio.

Kent Benson, Indiana, 6-11, Sophomore, New Castle, Pa.

Quinn Buckner, Indiana, 6-3, Junior, Phoenix, Ill.

John Garrett, Purdue, 6-11, Senior, Peru, Ind.

Lindsay Hairston, Michigan State, 6-7, Senior, Detroit.

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

A Headache Is a Symptom

Headache is probably the most common symptom that is brought to the attention of doctors. The key word is that a headache is a "symptom," and not a "disease."

There are so many variations of the symptom of headache that it sometimes takes the most arduous investigation to track down its cause.

Physicians who specialize in the diagnosis and treatment of headaches (and there are such specialists) now study the total patient from a medical and psychological point of view.

The hereditary background, the social and economic structure, and the occupation of the patient all play a role in the production and eventual relief from headache.

Doctors get their clues to the origin of headaches from minute details about when they occur, their frequency and their relationship to daily activity.

Certain types of headache are more quickly recognized than others. Migraine, for example, is one that is usually limited to half the head and may be associated with visual disturbances prior to the onset of the headache.

Throbbing, pulsating headaches suggest some vascular origin. High blood pressure must then be ruled out.

Sharp, shooting neuralgic pains in the head may be caused by sinus infection, dental disturbances or disorders of the jaw joint.

Many people complain of headaches that are induced by psychological stress. The complexities of modern living are so great that one is rarely free of tension. Physicians very carefully rule out every conceivable physical factor before suggesting that chronic headaches are of psychogenic origin.

There are many techniques by which the brain and its vascular system can be studied. X-rays, spinal taps and scanning of the brain rule out the more severe reasons for headache.

Eye problems, especially glaucoma, may produce pain in the eye and in the head. Poor vision, uncorrected by glasses, and eyestrain are possible causes, too.

A condition known as "temporal arteritis" involves the temporal artery in the side of the head. This, too, is ruled out in the complete study of persistent headache.

Far too many people remain devitalized and unproductive because of persistent headaches. Many have tried wide varieties of medicines without any benefit. The key, of course, to the eradication of headaches is to determine its exact cause by intensive study. Unless the cause is determined, medical treatment at best is haphazard and rarely fruitful.

Assume you're in three notrump and West leads a heart. East plays the A-K and another heart and West, upon taking the queen, cashes his ten, on which you have to discard.

To give yourself the best chance for the contract - which depends on winning the spade finesse as well as four diamond tricks - you discard a club from dummy and, after East also discards a club, a spade from your hand.

In Focus by Charlie Pensyl

I first met Miss Patricia Brugger last October at the PSA convention in Chicago. A couple of weeks ago Miss Brugger had the program at a PSA meeting in Cincinnati. Her program was a slide presentation of the beauties of Hawaii. The camera work was superb, and her presentation was beautifully handled with two Kodak Carousel projectors coupled to a dissolve device similar to the one we use at FAYETTE FILM FORUM and the one used at SOUNDS UNLIMITED. Musical background and commentary are on tape, which also carries the impulse that changes the slides, like the unit used by Dale Wade and Howard Miller for their splendid slide presentations. The excellence of Miss Brugger's presentation technique was only exceeded by the artistic photographic technique. This gal can handle a camera.

Now Howard Miller has a beautiful slide show on Hawaii, too. To me it was fun to see the differences in the two shows. I can't say the two shows were handled entirely independently since I had described Miller's show to Patricia in Chicago. These two people saw the islands differently, however, and their programs, though using the same media and techniques, were each a reflection of the individual photographic artist. Howard has presented his show at our CKFN sessions and I'm going to try to get Miss Brugger to bring her presentation here soon.

A well-done slide show can be a most entertaining and enjoyable experience. When poorly handled it can be a nightmare. One of the most common faults, of course, is that often they run too long. Some people insist on showing every slide they shot, good or bad, whether it contributes to the story or not. And some don't even have a theme or story line. The Brugger show was 30 min., Dale Wade's beautiful shows are, I think, about 26 min., and Miller has a splendid 28 min. presentation. A show has to be terrific to hold your attention much longer than that.

"It was finals day!"

Columbus man hurt in rural accident

A Columbus man was injured when the van he was driving at 1:10 p.m. Monday struck an open drainage ditch on Ohio 38, one-tenth of a mile north of Yatesville.

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported John P. Robert, 27, skidded off the left side of the road, striking the ditch and showed visible signs of injury from the mishap; however, he was not treated according to officials at Fayette Memorial Hospital.

Damage was estimated as moderate. Washington C. H. police reported three traffic mishaps, one of which involved the citing of a city man for a driving offense and sheriff's deputies reported two more accidents.

An auto driven by Leonard R. Milstead, 66, Rt. 4, went out of control at 6:30 a.m. Monday, while Milstead was traveling south on Ohio 729, six-tenths of a mile south of South Plymouth, and struck a fence owned by Jesse Persinger, Ford Road.

Sheriff's deputies reported both fence and auto, slightly damaged.

Two mailboxes and posts, belonging to the Ashland Oil Co., 810 Highland Ave. and T. N. Hayslip, 734 Ohio 41-S, were struck by a hit-skip driver, who traveled off Ohio 41 at the Elm Street intersection and hit the boxes.

The incident, which is believed to have occurred sometime between Friday and Saturday is presently under investigation by sheriff's deputies.

An accident between cars driven by Robert P. Gordon, 23, of 1117 Gregg St., and Edgar L. Matthews, 62, of 1225 N. North St., occurred at 4:35 p.m. Monday, at the exit drive of Helfrich's Market, onto Delaware Street.

Police cited Gordon for failure to yield right of way.

An accident involving a semi-truck driven by Alton C. Piner, 37, Westwood, N.J. and a car driven by Elizabeth J. Taylor, 18, Greenfield, occurred at 11:59 a.m. Monday, at the intersection of Columbus Avenue and Lincoln Drive.

City police reported the semi slid into the intersection while attempting to stop and struck the Taylor auto while attempting to back up. No one was injured, nor cited.

Minor damage occurred to cars driven by Robin L. Oyer, 17, of 802 E. Market St., and Billy G. Penwell Sr., 38, of 742 Washington Ave., at 6:06 p.m. Monday, at the intersection of East and Sycamore streets.

Like the previous semi-truck and auto accident, police reported Oyer backed into the Penwell car after sliding into the intersection. There were no injuries.

Icebreaker frees self

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The U.S. icebreaker Glacier has rammed her way through a mile and a half of the antarctic ice pack into the freedom of open seas, the Coast Guard here reported today.

A spokesman said the 309-foot Glacier, the United States' largest and most powerful icebreaker, radioed just before 10:30 p.m. PDT Monday night that she had freed herself from heavy ice in the Weddell Sea.

The U.S. icebreaker became trapped while on a mission to rescue the Argentine icebreaker, the Gen. San Martin. The two ships were caught by blocks of ice and glaciers that formed a frozen mass up to 25 feet in thickness.

Of the Glacier's 211 crew members, 138 were on board when the crippled ship pounded her way through the ice to reach open water.

Thirty-seven of the remainder, along with 13 civilian scientists, are now in Buenos Aires, and 36 other crew members are on the icebreaker Burton Island near the Glacier, awaiting evacuation to Buenos Aires by Argentine Air Force C-130 aircraft.

The Burton Island is in open water to the north of the Glacier.

The airlift, however, should prove unnecessary, and the men will most likely be returned to the Glacier, the spokesman said. He added that a decision will be reached soon on whether those already in Buenos Aires will be flown to the United States or returned to the Glacier.

Money Matters

By R. W. Tice

By The Way, Are You A Stranger In These Parts?

There's one time when it would be wise to make a small loan when it's not really needed:

When one is a newcomer in town and has not established a credit rating.

From a Bank, or a department store with a revolving charge credit plan, make a small obligation loan or purchase, and then repay it before it is due.

Difficulties in borrowing are often encountered because there is no record of one's credit payments.

Quickly paying back a small loan that may not even have been needed does establish a record that could be important later when a good credit standing would be a most meaningful asset, particularly if and when an emergency arises.

"Borrowing power" can be as much an asset as money in a savings account. Either can be used to purchase what you want, when you need or want it.

Congratulations to Charles Wehner upon his election to the post of President of the Fayette County Shepherds Club.

Congratulations to Paul Junk upon successfully completing his professional surveyors examination.

And congratulations to Taylor Groff upon being appointed to the Fayette County Memorial Hospital Board of Trustees.

Strange, perhaps, our telling some people to borrow money when they don't really need it - but, here at our Bank, your friendly First National Bank of Washington Court House we've always believed in being realistic in our advice and guidance. Hence the type of advice we've been giving in this column.
